Casement Windows

If you live in a period home there's no need to sacrifice grace for efficiency. Our reproduction windows elegantly capture the look and feel of the period style, but with the kind of energy efficiency and minimal maintenance that a modern homeowner demands.

As well as saving you energy now, they could stop your home from being energy downgraded should you come to sell. What's more, you'll find attention to detail in every single feature – every accessory we make is as individual as your home, adding a certain sophistication to your living space.

If you own a period home you're probably resigned to the idea of having to lose energy through your windows and doors. However, it doesn't have to be that way. The Harborne Sash Window Company is proud to offer a unique selection of reproduction windows and doors that are so authentically styled they're approved for use even in conservation areas and are specially designed to match the charm and refinement of your property.

From 'monkey tail' locking handles to a choice of Ovalo Georgian bars, or an authentic putty line finish, we always go the extra mile to ensure that every detail is just right.

Sash Windows

Simple in design, elegant in proportion, the sash window is one of the most beautiful and efficient styles ever made.

Trouble is, original examples can also lead to unwanted drafts and poor sound insulation. At The Harborne Sash Window Company, our mission has been to combine traditional British craftsmanship with 21st century standards of performance.

By faithfully blending the beauty, proportions and elegance of original sash windows, traditionally styled with weights and pulleys or more modern techniques, we can deliver an authentic sash window that meets all of the latest building requirements – and loses none of its charm.

Our skilled craftsmen ensure that every window performs on all counts – energy efficient, sound proof, secure glazed with low ‘e’ toughened or laminated safety glass, and minimal maintenance.

Choosing a Harborne Sash Window solution is so much more than a cosmetic enhancement – it’s a rock-solid investment that protects the integrity – and therefore the value – of your home.

It really couldn’t be easier to restore your home to its former glory.

Bay Windows

Bay windows have featured prominently in British architectural history for centuries and enjoyed a particular Renaissance during the Victorian era. They can be found on properties across all eras and thus will suit a home of any period, the key is selecting the right window.

Usually comprising of between 3 and 7 individual facets, bay windows can be either squared or curved and depending on the style of the house, constructed in sash or casement windows.

Given their size, bay windows allow a plethora of light to flood in to the room whilst on the inside giving the illusion of greater space.

Given their importance to the aesthetics of a property, bay windows often have unique designs with curved astragal bars, or bespoke stained glass units. Our bay windows delicately reproduce these features and we have a specialist stained glass expert, who using traditional techniques, can faithfully replicate the original design.

Our aim is to provide timber windows and doors that not only satisfy these rules but also enhance your home – improving insulation, sound proofing and day-to-day operation – whilst maintaining an authentic appearance for many, many years to come.
